ALL ABOARD FOR OUR SUMMER LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE June 12, 2010

The leadership conference this summer will be hosted by the Silver Spring branch on June 12 and will provide TRAINing for ongoing and new branch officers. We will spend our day's TRAINing trip concentrating on Emboldening Leaders.

As Dian Belanger noted in her introduction at the installation of officers at the April convention, Leadership is not a solo commitment. Marcie Posner also said in her report that, "we must have more active members who will step forward when and where needed."

Thus, some of our goals at this meeting will be to:

- share ideas to encourage branch leadership development;
- help in identifying leaders and addressing current needs;
- learn new fundraising techniques;
- encourage the sharing of resources and strategies;
- assist in membership retention and growth.

9:30-10:30: Keynote address-Kathy Braeman

"Shifting Perspectives on Leadership" will be the focus of Executive Coach Kathryn Grace Braeman's keynote address. She will show how we each need to identify and build on our own strengths as a first step to empowering others and emboldening leaders. Kathy invites us as women to step into our own power.

12:45-1:15 Presentation of Branch Projects

Many branches have been very creative this year planning fund raisers, membership activities, community service projects, etc., and we would like members to share with the group, ideas which we can take back to our own branches. We will take 5 -10 minutes to hear from each branch that is interested. If you would like to make a presentation, call Mary Anne Williams (301-662-7837) or Pat Crane (410-819-3653).

CREATING MAGIC WANDS

Kathy Braeman's afternoon workshop will offer practical paths for each of us to find our own "magic wands!" We will have opportunities to own our own leadership gifts and create paths for others to embrace their own "inner leader." We will explore how we ignite our own passions to decide where and how we want to have an impact. Is there a safe way to take a risk or is it too risky to remain safe?

We will explore ways to pass the baton to younger women and show them the benefits from AAUW. For example, once Kathy invited her friends to a leadership link event for her daughter and her college friends. To bridge the communications gap, each college woman copied two quotes from a book of Women's Quotation. These quotes bridged the age gap: two who were inspired by the same quote were matched and had a conversation starter.

LEADERSHIP CORPS

AAUW chose to identify grassroots liaisons in the Leadership Corps who will help two-way communication -- on the one hand to identify and promote national resources at the local and state levels and on the other hand to communicate local and state concerns to staff and national leaders. Among the goals is to foster member involvement and leadership development throughout AAUW. The goal is to collaborate to build overall AAUW membership -- to revitalize branches, to acquire new members, and to establish new branches. The Leadership Corps is an expansion of the regional director model adapted to the 21st century to galvanize our sense of ourselves, of AAUW as a nationwide "community" of members who bring together our energies, creativity, intelligence, diversity and friendship within and across, branches, states, interests, to advance equity for women and girls. We want to leverage the power and influence of the AAUW community to break through barriers for women and girls.

FILLING THE COAL CAR

Laura McCulty Stepp will lead an afternoon workshop discussing AAUW programs and special events that our members and branches can participate in. She will also bring us ideas on how to raise monies for the AAUW national funds and our own community activities. This workshop continues a sharing of the branch projects at lunch. At the April Convention, Laura had an opportunity to explain the restructuring of AAUW which took place after the convention in St. Louis. Members thought this explanation very helpful, and she can briefly discuss this to those who missed it in April.

Laura McCulty Stepp, AAUW Director of Development since 2006, hails from Ohio and has more than 15 years of fundraising experience for local, state and national non-profit organizations. She currently directs fund raising activities to support all AAUW programs through individual giving, branch giving, major gifts, planned gifts, corporate giving, and special events. She has a long commitment to social justice issues especially those concerning women and children. Laura lives in Maryland with her husband and two daughters and often visits her son in Ohio.

DON'T LOSE ANY CARS

Back by popular demand.....Jennifer Ingram presented a membership workshop on recruitment at our April convention and one of our members declared it very exciting. Now, she is ready to help us with retention of our members. She will present an interactive workshop discussing successes and ideas for attracting and retaining members. She will also be able to discuss the AAUW national membership campaigns.

Jennifer Ingram is the MD State membership chair and a member of the Howard County Branch. Her success with her own branch is incredible—they went from 45 members to 80.

Bringing up the Caboose 3:30

Take all these wonderful ideas back to your branch and have a wonderful and busy summer.

Kathy Braeman

Kathy was an early activist for women's equity. She campaigned for a seat in the U.S. Congress from Nebraska in 1972 as a feminist candidate after being a leader in the League of Women Voters (LWV), National Organization for Women (NOW), and the National Women's Political Caucus (NWPC). She came to Washington, DC, in 1975 after finishing law school and was active in the American Bar Association, the Federal Bar Association, the United Nations Association, and Toastmasters International. After leaving her position as an administrative judge for a federal agency in 2008, Kathy became an executive coach and inspirational speaker. Her goal is to encourage leaders to reach out to new people, to explore common threads to better build rapport and trust. She provides coaching support to help individuals gain confidence to become catalysts for change. Her website: www.thekatalystconnection.com outlines her background.

As a member of the AAUW's recently established Leadership Corps, Kathy is one of 48 grassroots liaisons. The goal is to provide consulting and resources to local and state groups. She lives in Washington, DC, and has also served with the AAUW Lobby Corps on Capitol Hill. She has been a catalyst and had AAUW leadership roles on the State of Virginia AAUW Board as Program vice president and also in the Arlington Branch. Before she created her own coaching business, The Katalyst Connection, she served as an administrative judge for the Defense Office of Hearings and Appeals and travelled nationally to conduct due process hearings and assess individual's trustworthiness. She worked in the federal government for thirty years at Defense, Justice, Office of Personnel Management, and for the U.S. Senate. She previously served as Executive Director of the Women's Law Fund.

When new to AAUW, Kathy was asked to design her first AAUW program in 2008 for the Legal Advocacy Fund (LAF). She chose to focus on the status of sports equity at the high school level under Title IX as there is a nexus between sports equity, educational equity, and workplace equity. She has continued this interest. She recently spoke on equity in athletics in April at the West Virginia and Virginia State AAUW conferences. Her daughter Elizabeth Kristen is a public interest lawyer with a focus on Title IX litigation. In April Elizabeth led a sports equity workshop at the California State AAUW conference. Last fall Kathy and Elizabeth collaborated with LAF staffer Holly Kearn in creating KNOW THE SCORE, a new "Program in a Box" (PIAB) on the AAUW website which shows branches a step by step approach to seeing how sports has made a difference in the lives of teenage girls. AAUW has a Title IX Compliance website available here: <http://www.aauw.org/advocacy/laf/lafnetwork/library/TitleIXcompliance.cfm>.

Message from Marcie

Marcie Posner, President AAUW MD

410-465-1905 <marciaposner@hotmail.com>

My term as president is a living example of the old adage, "Time flies when we are having fun." Could it really be two years since Diane Roca passed the gavel to me, as the "antique" box started to fall apart? Was that crumbling box an omen, a harbinger of what the future would bring? Maybe it was.

We started out as pilots for the Association--pilots wearing pearls. We opened AAUW's Program in a Box to find suggested topics of interest and concern, but then there were complaints that the Association was telling us what to do; we paid for our membership on line, after a lot of confusion, discussion, prodding, and lecturing; we were in the dark as to what was going on in Annapolis, as no one was willing to follow in Elaine Franz' well-worn shoes; and we asked for volunteers but heard "no" more often than "yes." However, our hard work reflected that the Association rightly gave us the privilege to wear its PEARL(s) to protect, educate, advocate, research and lead, and we supported each gem with our monetary contributions.

For the first time, the State is sponsoring a young woman to attend the National Conference for College Women Student Leaders (NCCWSL), held on the University of Maryland College Park campus, and will continue to do so each year by asking the branches for names of possible recipients. The State brought excellent speakers and workshops to its conferences and conventions, imparting vital information to branch members.

Branches have responded in various ways to encourage girls and young women in the areas of STEM, as well as to assist in paying for their college educations, no matter what their areas of study. For instance, Howard County gives a yearly scholarship and works with the Giving Circle at the Applied Physics Laboratory each year to introduce middle and high school girls to science and math. They also have a mentoring program. Hagerstown holds a large book sale to award several scholarships each year, and continues to see the students through their college years, if asked. Harford awards high school junior-year young women for their exceptional work in math and science. Easton has a luncheon for Women Who Make a Difference and Patuxent River has a Dare to Dream project that awards women. Branches have members of Lobby Corps who keep abreast of what is happening on the Hill and lobby for or against bills. These are only a few examples of the good work done by AAUW Maryland and its branches.

However, we had areas that were weak--weak as an antique box taken for granted. It would do its job, even without people giving necessary attention to its needs. With new tape added to the old and more tape to fill in empty spaces, the box is now sturdy. And with new officers added to the old, another filling a vital empty space, and additional members willing to donate their time and energy, we will have an even stronger organization to break barriers, advancing equity for women and girls through education, advocacy, philanthropy and research.

Dear Members,

I usually send thank-you notes by snail mail; however, to reach everyone, I am going the technology route.

My beautiful plant now decorates my dining room, sitting in the largest tea cup I have ever seen, on the table in the center of the room. I will do my very best to keep it growing. I also enjoy a cup of tea in the evening, tea that really does revive me to get done what I need to do--either for AAUW or for myself.

Thank you for these things and for a wonderful two years working with you.

Sincerely,

Marcie

Meet Our Leaders.....

Co-Presidents

Mary Anne Williams

Mary Anne has been an active member of AAUW for more than 30 years. During that time, she has served in many branch offices, including Program Vice President, Membership Vice President, and President. She has served as State Program Co-Vice President for the last four years. AAUW has given much to her on a personal and professional level, and she values the friends she has made through the organization. She is dedicated to working towards the goal of equity for all women and girls!

In her other life, she is a retired school teacher, and now works as a support coordinator for the non-profit The Arc of Frederick County. She is married with two adult children and two and a half grandchildren (one expected in August). In her spare time she is taking lessons to fly an airplane. Joyce Graf has been a booster for this goal!

Joyce Fleury Graf

A life member of AAUW and a founding member of Kensington-Rockville Branch, Joyce has been active in AAUW since joining AAUW Walnut Creek, CA in the late 70s. She was a member of the former Rockville, MD branch, where she served as newsletter editor, program vice-president, and president. At the state level, Joyce has edited the Marylander, contributed to Leader Lines, and is former AAUW Maryland Program Vice-President. She is on the local arrangements committee for the 2011 AAUW convention and was a member of the local planning committee for the 100th anniversary celebration in Washington of the AAUW Educational Foundation.

Joyce's career includes work in quality assurance management for health care products, teaching high school and college chemistry, and directing environmental science for CTFA, the industry association representing the personal care products industry.

A graduate of the University of Vermont, she holds a master's and doctorate in organic chemistry from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. She is a member of the Association for Women Geoscientists and the American Chemical Society.

A private pilot, she has flown throughout the US, Canada, and the Bahamas. She is spending her retirement years visiting friends and family all over the world. She traveled with her late husband Bob to every continent except Antarctica. She will miss the AAUW MD fall conference because it conflicts with a month-long trip to Southeast Asia.

Public Policy Vice President Hollis Paschen

A Howard County resident since 1976, Hollis Paschen's activities include 25+ years as an award-winning journalist, weekly columnist, investigative reporter, and English teacher / career counselor for male inmates in medium and maximum security prisons. In 2008, she became a National Institute of Corrections-certified trainer for its Offender Workforce Development program. Hollis has been an editor and writer for publications such as Baltimore Magazine, Prevention Magazine Health Books, Johns Hopkins Women's Health Newsletter, and the Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE). Currently, Hollis is an Adjunct Reader for Bowie State University, and an Student Assessment Specialist at Lincoln College of Technology.

As a journalist, Hollis frequently chose her own topics, and they often focused on women's issues. Her research included living in homeless shelters with at-risk families, mostly women and children; interviewing victims of incest and domestic violence; tracking down newly-released but missing schizophrenics for Johns Hopkins' researchers, and tackling countless projects that required the skillful hand of a compassionate observer.

Not surprisingly, Hollis raised her son to embrace the same passion for promoting women's rights and gender equity. "Teddy" often accompanied his mother to interviews, rallies, and what is now one of their favorite memories, the historic ERA March on Washington in 1978. "He was thrilled to actually meet and talk to one of our country's original suffragettes," she says. "After that, he was hooked."

Hollis graduated cum laude from the University of Maryland with a B.A. in English and worked toward her M.S. in Regional and Urban Planning at Johns Hopkins University. An avowed "news junkie" she relishes "debating the issues" and working on political campaigns. Her latest source of pride and joy is her new grandson, Hunter, who is becoming part of a family tradition: Pinned to his travel bag is a button that says "WORK FOR EQUALITY!"

Communications Vice President Edie Allison

Edie has been a member of AAUW Maryland since moving to the state in 1997. During that period she has served as Gaithersburg Branch President and has been Maryland President (2004-2006) and Maryland Co-Vice President for Membership (2006-2009). She is a petroleum geologist currently working as a consultant after recently retiring from a 24-year career with the U.S. Department of Energy. She holds a Master's degree in Geology from the University of Utah.

Program Vice President Marcie Posner

Membership

Jennifer Ingram Membership Vice President

We met our goal for this year – an increase in state membership of 24 new members net as of 4/1/10. This allows for members who did not renew as well, so this is a great accomplishment. Howard County has the highest percentage of increase with 44 new members net since 2/1/09, a 97.7% increase. Garrett County was next with 8 new members net, a 47% increase. Congratulations to Frederick, Laurel and Silver Spring as well!

We recruited for the state at the MLAW state conference and the League of Women Voters state conference, as well as the MAGIC conference (our part of the National Girls Collaborative Project). We plan to recruit for the state at the Multinational Development of Women in Technology (MDWIT) Conference on April 29. Branches that want their branch to be represented should submit a file of their membership application to me at jenniferingram@comcast.net.

It is time to begin the renewal of membership process. Renewal applications are due by June 30, 2010. Contact your branch membership vice-president for more information.

Jennifer Ingram

Jennifer worked for the Social Security Administration for 34 years in various positions across the country. Her latest job until retirement 3 years ago was marketing programs for people with disabilities to help them secure work. Jennifer has been very involved in AAUW as Membership Vice-President of Howard County for the last two years, and President-Elect for the past year. She will become President of Howard County on July 1, 2010. She also served as Membership Vice President of Maryland for the past year and will serve another year. She believes we need to recruit a diverse group of members for Maryland and work toward keeping members involved in AAUW. She appreciates the branches' efforts to do so and looks forward to working with them for the next year.

AAUW Educational Opportunities Fund

Christine Schmitz

Educational Opportunities Fund Vice-President,

Thank you to everyone who participated in the AAUW Education Fund raffles at the Maryland AAUW convention. $102.00 was raised for the Funds from the raffle of the AAUW scarf as well as $46.00 from the wine.

A reminder note to Branches, for every $500.00 in total contributions to AAUW Education Funds in 2009, your branch is entitled to award a "named gift" recipient. Please contact me if your branch wants to receive the official certificate forms for the awarding of these "named gifts".

At the recent convention, I presented awards to the following Branches which had the highest total giving to the AAUW Education Funds:

#1 Kensington-Rockville $10,703

#2 Anne Arundel County $ 7,370
#3 Gaithersburg $ 5,100

The following Branches had the highest giving per capita:

#1 Laurel
#2 Kensington-Rockville
#3 Gaithersburg

What's next for Maryland projects in the area of AAUW Funds? I have formed a committee to explore our options for our next major project. We will be meeting sometime in May to discuss proposed ideas. If you did not have an opportunity to give your input at the Convention, please feel free to email me at dialacpa@aol.com or call me 410-795-5091. It's not too late to be part of the planning.

Christine Schmitz

Christine, a former Co-President of the AAUW Towson Branch, is a Certified Public Accountant and Certified Financial Planner with Glass Jacobson in Owings Mills. In addition to being a CPA, her specialties at Glass Jacobson are in the areas of investment and insurance planning. She advises individuals on their life, disability and long term care insurance needs in addition to being a Registered Investment Advisor. She also recently received the Personal Financial Specialist designation from the American Institute of CPAs.

She has been a member of AAUW since 2002 serving as Vice President for Membership of AAUW Towson, Chairperson for their Empowering Women's Conference and a former Co-President. She was a member of the Association's Membership Task Force in 2007 working on the Strategic Process at the National level. Her introduction to AAUW was through attending one of the Empowering Women's Conferences held by AAUW Towson. She has been the Maryland Vice President of the AAUW Educational Foundation for the last two years.

In addition to being a graduate of the University of Baltimore and the College for Financial Planning, Christine is also a graduate of Peabody Conservatory of the Johns Hopkins University with a Bachelor's degree in Vocal Performance. She has remained active with Peabody, having served as President of their Alumni Association for two years as well as Secretary of the John Hopkins University Alumni Steering Committee. She and her husband continue their involvement in singing; currently with Columbia Pro Cantare and the CPC Chamber Chorus. She is also a member of numerous business organizations such as the Maryland Association of CPAs, the Financial Planning Association, the Society of Financial Service Professionals and Women in Financial Services. She is an active member of St. Barnabas Episcopal Church in Sykesville where she chairs their Finance Committee and is a member of the elected Vestry.

2010 Convention Report

By Susan Wierman, Baltimore Branch

The Baltimore Branch hosted the 2010 AAUW Maryland Convention at Cross Keys April 10-11. Over 50 AAUW members "took a little trip" to a stronger future.

To begin, Laura McCulty Stepp, AAUW Director of Development, helped us choose a destination. She reminded us AAUW's mission is to advance equity for women and girls through advocacy, education, philanthropy, and research. AAUW's redesigned website will make it easier to find our way. Laura recognized the success of AAUW Maryland in fully funding the Dian Belanger international fund. (At least $100,000 has been contributed to that fund, so its first fellowship will be awarded next year.)

Planning our route, State President Marcia Posner guided us as we approved the newly amended bylaws published in the spring Marylander and elected officers. Joyce Fleury Graf (Kensington/Rockville) and Mary Anne Williams (Frederick) will serve two years as co-presidents beginning July 1. Others elected were Hollis Pashen (Howard County) Public Policy Vice President, Edie Allison (Gaithersburg) Communications Vice President, and Christine Schmitz Fundraising Vice President. Cleopatra Campbell Anderson will continue her role as Legal Advocacy Fund Liaison.

There are now 774 members in AAUW Maryland, including a reported 56 members in the Baltimore Branch. In the past year, members of Maryland branches contributed over $43,000 to the Educational Foundation, and over $8,000 to the Legal Advocacy fund.

Our luncheon speaker was Dr. Bernice Sandler, known as the "Godmother of Title IX." Enacted in 1972, Title IX prohibits sex discrimination in federally funded educational institutions. The initial intent was to address admission and employment, with sports a minor consideration. Since 1972 most overt policies excluding women have been eliminated. Many more women have entered graduate school, many faculty have received raises, and women's participation in sports has greatly increased. But Dr. Sandler made it clear there is more to be done, particularly in K-12 education, where social bullying is prevalent. Girls are still discouraged from entering certain fields, and it will take generations to effect needed comprehensive social change.

Three concurrent sessions in the afternoon provided opportunities to expand membership, take care of personal finances, or continue discussion with Dr. Sandler. In addition, experts presented information about the World Medical Card, available to AAUW members.

Our dinner speaker was Kristen Gales, a lawyer who is a national expert in pursuing cases of sex discrimination. She kept us enthralled with stories of athletes striving to reach their potential. Also that evening, Janet Crampton (Kensington/Rockville) received special recognition for her many contributions to AAUW. On Sunday, we celebrated Janet, Dian Belanger, Eileen Menton, the Maryland women in whose names AAUW grants fellowships.

Maryland 2010 Convention

Patuxent River WOW Luncheon

The WOW luncheon March 20 was a big success, with over 120 attendees, including 11 from AAUW. Marcia Posner, our state president, came down from Columbia; also present were Norma Powers, Anne Harrison, Sue Chabot, Cynthia Dickerson, Andrews, Roberta Safer, and Ira and Barbara Fetterhoff. The photo at the right shows Barbara, the AAUW honoree with Marcia and Norma. The branch had a display about AAUW and our Dare to Dream project. Marie Andrews was honored by the League of Women Voters for her work on the new Calvert County Pool.
